

Sign up to be included in the Montessori Research Pool!

Interested in participating in Montessori research? Sign up by filling out this form.

There is a tremendous need for more high-quality Montessori research. The Montessori Research Pool will allow researchers to find a broad range of participants that precisely match their study's focus (e.g., people working with dementia, early childhood, adolescence, in public/private schools, etc.).

Please include this sign-up link in your communications and share the QR code in your presentations. Together, we can create the foundations researchers need to delve deeper into the Montessori method!

Note: Signing up does not mean you will be included in a research study; it just gives researchers a way to contact you and request your participation. You can opt-out at any time.

Background: A group of Montessori researchers (Dr. Kateri Carver, Dr. Susan Zoll, and Julia Volkman) started this database of Montessorians who are willing to participate in research. The database is managed by the University of Wisconsin, River Falls. Researchers can gain access to the database by presenting their ethics board (IRB) approval to the University. Interested researchers should contact montresearch@uwrf.edu
